About the Search Engines & Freedom of Expression

Hello, Friends

This website in its own way is fighting against the Marxist revolution and leftist revolt in the United States of America. It’s no joke and is happening right now.

Most of media, social networks and search engines here are aligned with the left (yes, sad but true). When they get the whiff of what we are doing, the outcome is predictable.

The website may be banned from search engines results, soon. This means lots of people looking for this type of information would never find it on their own.

In case you share the views expressed here, please bookmark the website for future visits.

Do it now.

Can you think of others who might benefit from reading these pages? Pass the URL links to them any which way you can.

When you give credit to this website, you are free to copy, reference, transmit and reproduce any materials found here, without limitation.

Live outside the USA? You may actually see more frequent references to us in your local search results. Please pass them along to your American friends

Criminals cannot be permitted to take over the United States of America.